Hello. My name is Emiko. I am 15 years old and a third-year student at junior high school. I am a member of the soccer club, and I have played soccer since I was 6 years old. I'm very good at playing soccer, and became the best girl soccer player in Japan last year. I also enjoy studying English very much. I want to play soccer and study English hard at high school, too.

My dream for the future is to play soccer in a foreign country, for example, in America or the UK. My English will be better, and I will be a better soccer player at the same time.

Today, there are many Japanese sports players who are doing very well in foreign countries. For example, Ichiro, a Japanese baseball player, and Honda Keisuke, a Japanese soccer player, are playing well in other countries. They are very popular and famous in the world. I think it is good if many Japanese players become popular in foreign countries. So, more Japanese players should go to different countries. However, some people say this is a big problem. Japan will lose good sports players if too many of them go to foreign countries.
