I usually ride a bike when I go out. Last Saturday, I was planning to enjoy a concert at the music hall. That morning, I found something was wrong with my bike, so I had to walk all the way to the music hall. It took a lot of time and energy to arrive there, and I missed the first part of the concert. I felt very sad.

But on the way there, when I walked by some houses along the street, I was surprised because the nice gardens with beautiful flowers came into my eyes. Also, little children were playing with their friends in the park and they looked happy. I became happy, too.

This experience gave me a new chance to see my life. Everything can be seen in a different way. Now I think I am able to find a different way to think even when I have problems.

Write another example which may have two different sides.
